Qualifications

Please describe your relevant analytical skills.

I work for the state of Texas and I am partly responsible for collecting an assortment of data from the 254 counties in Texas. Our department tracks demographic data, economic data, and other statutorily required metrics to provide information to local and statewide policy makers.

I am frequently asked to respond to information requests from elected officials and other court officials across the state. I use the data we've collected to conduct feasibility studies for certain court projects. I also use this information to create spending projections or to forecast other trends.

I am not an accountant, but I rely on basic accounting methods to manage a variety of projects across the state.

In terms of qualitative analysis, I have 4 years experience facilitating the Delphi Method with a panel of experts who are asked to review county proposals to fund new court programs. Our objective is to combine expert opinions to provide insight to a board of elected officials who are ultimately charged with awarding state funds to applicants.

Please describe your ability to be impartial.

Facilitating Delphi forecasting activities has taught me how to rely on the process to make decisions. Because state funds are at stake, it is important for us to preserve a strict adherence to official policies and procedures. Strict observance of the policies is one of the only ways to maintain impartiality.

Aside from that, I think of myself as a thoughtful and fair person.

Please describe your appreciation for the City of Austin's diverse demographics and geography.

I find that I am able to operate comfortably in several distinct settings that are commonly associated with living in Austin. Over the last several years, I have worked at a major state agency in the capitol complex, but I also spent about two years working with spanish speaking immigrants on labor issues. Some people consider living in central Austin a sort of bubble, but I have always traveled extensively throughout the region and the state, so I don't find myself being confined to a specific way of thinking.

For example, between 2009 and 2011, I spent nearly 50% of my work hours traveling to other Texas counties, which allowed me to better understand the thinking of people who live outside of Austin and helped me appreciate everything this city has to offer.

I work very well with individuals who are very conservative as well as individuals who are more liberal. Some of my most productive collaborations have been with people who are from very conservative backgrounds.

In terms of geography, my day to day schedule keeps me somewhat tethered to central Austin. But, I have always felt comfortable in most sectors of this community.

APPLICATION FOR THE INDEPENDENT CITIZENS REDISTRICTING COMMISSION

2013

Please provide any other information you wish to be considered during the selection of the most qualified applicants for the Commission.

Since 2007, I have served on the Citizen Review Panel for the Office of the Police Monitor (OPM) of the Austin Police Department. This position has required me to abide by the city's meet and confer agreement with the Austin Police Association. As a panelist for the OPM, I am entrusted with reviewing sensitive material such as investigative files, citizen complaints, police service records.

Combined with my analysis experience, I believe the time I have devoted to the Office of the Police Monitor has prepared me to serve on this Commission.
